Procedures for Payment of Benefits

I. Households that are exempt from residence tax (per capita tax) for fiscal year 2021

Households in which it has been confirmed that all household members are exempt from residence tax.

- Households that are considered to be eligible will receive a confirmation letter from Ina City that describes the details of the benefit and a checklist of items to be confirmed.
  - Please check the contents of the letter and send the requested items back to Ina City.
- ① Make sure that the account number for the benefit transfer is correct.
  - ② The household must not consist only of dependents of those who are subject to residence tax.

If there are undeclared persons in the household

- If there is a member of your household who has not yet filed a residence tax return for the 2021 fiscal year, you will not receive a confirmation letter.
- Please apply to the Social Welfare Division or the Temporary Consultation Office for Livelihood Support after you have completed your residence tax return at the Tax Division.

II Households in which all members of the household are equivalent to exempt from the residence tax* due to a decrease in income caused by the new coronavirus infection

The term "equivalent to exempt from the residence tax" means that the estimated annual income of all household members (any monthly income since January 2021 x 12) is less than or equal to the level of exemption from the per capita portion of the residence tax. (The applicable limit is different for each city, town or village.)

(Example) Approximate annual salary income that is exempt from residence tax (in the case of Ina City)
For a single person: 930,000 yen or less For a person and one child: 1,378,000 yen or less.

- To receive the benefit, you need to apply.
- Please fill out the application form and submit it along with the attached documents to your local municipal office in person or by mail at the time of application.

! If you apply for benefits due to a decrease in income that is not caused by the new coronavirus infection, you may be accused of receiving benefits fraudulently (fraud).

Please be aware of "bank transfer scams" and "fraudulent use of personal information" regarding the Temporary Special Benefit for Households Exempt from the Residence Tax!

If you receive a suspicious phone call or mail at your home or workplace from someone claiming to be from the prefecture, municipality, or the national government, please contact your local municipality, the nearest police station, or the police consultation line (#9110).

Frequently asked questions about Temporary Special Benefit for Households Exempt from Residence Tax, etc.

Q Who will receive the benefits? How do I receive the benefits?

A A. The head of the household is the recipient of the benefit.
In principle, the benefit will be transferred to a bank account in the name of the head of household.

Q I am a university student living alone (residence tax exempt), but I am supported by my parents who live outside the city. Am I eligible for this benefit?

A Even if you are exempt from residence tax, if you are supported by someone who is subject to residence tax, you will not be eligible for the benefit. If the dependent is tax-exempt, the benefit will be covered, so please check.

Q I moved to Ina City on January 1, 2022. Where should I submit an application for benefits?

A If you are a household exempt from residence tax for the fiscal year 2021, please contact the municipality where your residence is registered as of December 10, 2021. Households with sudden financial changes should contact the municipality where they live at the time of application. Please apply to the Ina City Social Welfare Division or the Temporary Consultation Office for Livelihood Support.

Q I resigned from my job for personal reasons. Can I receive the benefit as a household with sudden changes in household income?

A This benefit is available to households whose finances have suddenly changed due to the effects of the new coronavirus infection and who are now exempt from residential taxation. Therefore, if your income has decreased for reasons completely unrelated to the new coronavirus infection, you will not be eligible for this benefit.

Q Can I receive benefits for households exempt from residential taxation and benefits for households with sudden changes in household income?

A A household that has received one of the benefits cannot receive the other benefit.

For more information on the system, including requirements, please refer to the Cabinet Office website.
